日本写真協会賞新人賞受賞作家作品展
Exhibition of PSJ Newcomer's Award Recipients' Works

Since the Photographic Society of Japan was established in 1952, the society has been annually presenting Photographic Society of Japan Awards on June 1, which is Photography Day in Japan. Awards are presented to people whose achievements in activities related to photographic culture in Japan was outstanding, or who published exceptional photographic works or essays. Awards are presented in the following five categories: International Award, Distinguished Contribution Award, Lifetime Achievement Award, Scholastic Achievement Award and Newcomer's Award. "Photographic Society of Japan Awards" is now one of the most authoritative photographic awards in Japan. Especially, recipients of the Newcomer's Award freshly embody Japanese Zeitgeist by using their own photographic expression, and are attracting attention each year.

In this exhibition "New Horizons", we show about 60 works of 2010-2012 Newcomer's Award recipients, namely SASAOKA Keiko, FUJIOKA Aya, OHWADA Ryo, MURAKOSHI Toshiya, KUMON Kentaro, and SAITO Asako. We hope the viewer would feel unique and new sensitivity of these young photographers, and find new horizons and new sights.
